

Powell River

Where Doctors find the Perfect Practice

“My practice in Powell River suits my lifestyle. My family and I love the community, the coastal geography, and of course ... the people!”

Dr. Danielle Marentette

General Practice

The clinics in Powell River offer large work spaces and pleasant locations, both near the ocean and downtown.

About our physicians

- 26 general practitioners
- Seven emergency room and anesthesia physicians
- Three nurse practitioners (one serving Tla'amin First Nation)
- Seven specialists including psychiatry, internal medicine, OBGYN and Surgery, plus regular visiting specialists from Vancouver Island and Vancouver.

Continuing Medical Education

CME events are held locally, and academic and clinical conferences & courses are just a 25-minute flight away; Vancouver offers significant CME opportunities for physicians through UBC School of Medicine and other institutions.

Powell River falls under the jurisdiction of Vancouver Coastal Health (VCH).

Variability

The region's private practices vary greatly in both hours and size — from two to 16 physicians. You can choose to work full time, half time or somewhere in between. Focus solely on your GP practice or compliment it by working in Emergency, Anesthesia, Maternity, as well as joining the rotating OR assist schedule.

- Over 90% of all physicians actively participate in Division organized events, including: Lunch & Learn, the Annual General Meeting, and the local CME event Pearl Fest.

My Passion

"I'm a family doctor with a part-time practice. I also work at our Community Health Youth Clinic, which has fueled my passion for collaborative work. I recently completed training to be a sexual health educator. In the next year, I'm thrilled to be working on a youth sexual health promotion project, spending time in the clinic, classrooms, meeting rooms, and with a host of community partners. Finding a niche and serving a need in Powell River has really fulfilled me professionally."

Dr. Leta Burechailo, MD, CCFP

Situated in the heart of the city, the Powell River General Hospital (PRGH) provides medicine, surgery, endoscopy, an ICU, obstetrics, oncology, dialysis, psychiatry, maternity, pediatrics, emergency, community health and diagnostic services.

Powell River General Hospital & Facilities

The hospital operates in collaboration with Evergreen Extended Care Unit, the Willingdon Creek Village residential care facility, Tla'amin Community Health Services, Powell River Community Health Centre, local medical clinics plus several pharmacies and the Powell River Division of Family Practice. For cases that require management beyond local capabilities, patients are transferred to Vancouver or Vancouver Island.
